Alisa’s yearly Prométour trip allows her students to learn about Canadian history on site where it happened. One particularly memorable trip took the students to Quebec City, where they could see the city’s history and culture firsthand. Alisa’s trip to Quebec was just as memorable as her trip to Quebec. Her students learned a lot about Canadian history and culture, and they also had fun along the way. "The trip was a great opportunity for the students to practice their foreign language skills in a real-life setting," says Alisa. "They were able to explore the city and interact with the locals, which made the trip an enriching and enjoyable experience for them."
