The Best Destinations

FOR YOUR STUDENTS

If you could go anywhere with your students, where would you go? What sights would you like them to see with their own eyes? What activities would you like them to participate in?

You may be set on a particular destination, especially if your goals for the trip include practice of a foreign language or visit to a particular historical site. In this case, this guide will help you identify more sites and on-tour activities to round out your itinerary in a particular country.

Or you may have set educational goals that could be met in a variety of places. In this case, you're more likely to be considering several destinations. This guide will help you choose the destination(s) that are the best match for your students.

Peruse the country profiles, note the iconic places that draw people to visit and the only-there experiences that will have a big impact on your students. If your wanderlust is not already ignited, reading the following pages will do just that!

At Prométour, we know that the difference between an educational adventure and a vacation—or, at worst, an overpriced bus excursion—lies in meeting your educational goals in meaningful ways. Students remember what they do, they remember what they learn when it was learned with context. When they play an active role in their learning process, they come away from it with knowledge that matters and memories that last a lifetime.

So take a few minutes and enjoy a bit of armchair travel. And then give us a call so we can make it real for you and your students!

France

Did you know?

The Château de Versailles is a great place for a science lesson! With Louis XIV's support of the sciences, the castle housed such projects as the Marly machine, the first fire-resistant building, animal dissection in the court's menagerie and botanical studies in the vast gardens.

Focus on Art

Gazing upon the iconic Mona Lisa at the Louvre is something your students will be able to check off their bucket list. Have fun debating its details on your way back to your hotel (How did the painting leave Italy and become part of François I's collection? Is she wearing a mourning veil?).
